Virginia,

This is in response to your request that we agree to continue the summary judgment hearing until "after September 12" which as you know in effect, because of the Court's schedule, will likely be October or November. Since one of the reasons that we filed an early summary judgment is that we believe it raises a largely legal issue regarding whether or not the Gorillapod has a protectible trade dress, we think an early adjudication of that issue may dispose of the case. We are also concerned that the legal expenses in this case are becoming unreasonable in light of our view of the value of the case given Tocad's rather insignificant sales and gross profits. Hence, unless Joby will agree to stay discovery except as may be necessary as set forth in a Rule 56(f) affidavit pending resolution of the summary judgment, we cannot agree to an extension.

Please note that since I am at the funeral today, please make sure to copy Debra on any correspondence and email as I will be unreachable for much of the day.

Mike
